INTRODUCTION

When we were on our honeymoon and my resistance was weak, Evelyn extracted a promise from me that we would attend the Saegert family reunion each year if it was at all possible. That was in April.

The following June, on Father's Day, we were present in Seguin at Laubach Hall. I had envisioned a large group of maybe thirty or forty people. There must have been two hundred. I wondered: Who are all these people?

After endless introductions, I finally wound up in a corner talking to another in-law that was as lost as I. We wondered: Is this possible?

Who are all these people? After four years, I am still trying to find out.

With subsequent meetings, I no longer feel so strange. I have grown fond of the reunions and look forward to them.

The small fry, as soon as they are old enough to let go of Mama's skirt run back and forth displaying the boundless energy of the very young. The teen-age boy cousins and the teen-age girl cousins gather and eye each other carefully. They feign a slight air of boredom to cover up their astonishment at having discovered a new species of animal. The adults mill about in an endless round of handshaking, hello, how are you, and exchange of family gossip.

Coffee and iced tea are prepared, the soda water cooler is stocked, but no alcohol is evident. The high spirits of this crowd needs no artificial stimulation.

Each car unloads a big basket of food. Each wife has brought enough to feed her brood and four others. Several long tables are put end to end and all the food set out. Paper plates are stacked at one end. The blessing is asked. A line forms on each side of the tables. Each person piles his plate high and bewails the fact that for each dish he sampled there were ten that looked better. Everybody eats too much, goes back for seconds, then back for dessert.

After dinner, the family gossip resumes. Some of the old folks play dominoes. The little kids start playing again and the teen-agers interrupt their gawking with frisbee tossing.

This brings me back to my point: Who are all these people?

I kept asking Evelyn. She said that they were the children of her grandfather, Fritz Saegert, and their families and some other relatives. The more that she explained, the more that I was confused. I asked her to chart the family so that I could understand it. She tried and gave up. In a dim-witted moment I offered to help. We wound up with twenty 8½x11 sheets of paper scotch-taped together. We managed to crowd it all on, but we knew that we had a few people missing. So we took it to the 1972 reunion to fill in the skips. At the reunion we realized that we had only uncovered the tip of the ice-berg. No one could tell us everthing. The only solution was to scrap the chart and compile this book.

Who are all these people? Well, they are a fine group made up of all sorts, some well-to-do, some poor, some sophisticated, some simple, some proud, some humble, some Ph.D.'s, some barely literate, but all are good people that I am sure old Johann Christian Sägert would be proud to call his own.

PREFACE

When I started compiling information for this book, I had no idea of its complexity. I thought that a few letters and half a dozen visits to relatives would wrap it up. It was not to be so simple. I will never find everyone. To those left out, I can only say that I tried.

Also, I know that there will be hurt feelings because of the many errors. Again, I can only say that I tried and that I am sorry. There is hope though, if you found a mistake don't go away mad. Furnish me the corrections for the omissions and mistakes. I will organize the information, and perhaps someday a revised edition can be produced. I have had to work within the bounds of what is practical, no one has been slighted deliberately. I feel that an imperfect book is better than no book at all.

The numbering system was developed as a research aid. The number of digits indicates the generation. The sequence indicates the order of birth. Number 1 is Johann Sägers. For instance, my number is 13251. It indicates that I am the first child of the fifth child of the second child of the third child of Johann Sägers.

These numbers should be taken with a grain of salt however. When I was not sure of the order of birth, the order was assigned arbitrarily. This flaw does not detract from the usefulness of the numbers as a finding tool when using the book.

The index directs you to the number instead of to the page. My husband insisted on an index of in-laws; it directs you to the number of the spouse. For the sake of simplicity, the maiden name only of married women is used throughout.

Collecting this information has been a pleasure. My husband and I have met a lot of delightful people that we probably would never have known otherwise. Everyone asks about the skeletons. Who are the black sheep? I know that it is a dull answer, but I simply haven't found any. Perhaps a faint suggestion of tattle-tale gray, once or twice, just to prove they are human, but really, the standard of character for such a large group should be a source of pride for all the descendants of Johann.

I wish to extend my heartfelt thanks to all the people who have helped with this book. Their aid and encouragement has made it possible.

NOTES

Lemuel Wilson was born in ^{Sage's Family} Pasquotank, North Carolina, in 1795. His tombstone in Polo Cemetery 4 miles west and $\frac{1}{2}$ mile south of Atlanta, Kansas, east side of road, gives his date of death as 1882 at the age of 87 years. His wife was Nancy Cory, 1798 - 1881, also buried at Polo Cemetery. Lemuel and Nancy apparently followed their son, Willis Wilson, to Cowley County from Indiana in 1869. They had four living children-- Willis, Abner, Lemuel, and Nancy J. (Miller).

Willis Wilson was born in Madison County, Indiana, in 1835. When he was eight years old, the family moved to Davis County, Indiana. On July 2, 1861, soon after the outbreak of the Civil War, Willis enlisted in Company D, 24th Reg., Indiana Volunteers, Infantry, 13th Army Corps, 3rd Div. Commander F. P. Hovey, under General Lew Wallace, was later colonel of the 24th Reg. Willis served as a private, and later as first sergeant, in 11 important engagements. He continued in the service for three years and received his discharge August 18, 1864. He then returned to Indiana, and farmed until 1869, at which time he sold his farm and went by rail to Ottawa, Kansas, and then by wagon to Cowley County, Kansas. Willis had but three months of formal schooling, and had married at age eighteen.

The Wilsons settled on Dutch Creek in Richland township, on the northwest quarter of section 24, and established a community known as Polo. When the railroad came through and missed Polo, he helped move the town to Atlanta in 1885. His children, Henry, James, Melinda, and Rosie took part in building the businesses in Atlanta.

Willis had arrived before any land was surveyed; he lived in a dugout, filed for a claim and farmed the land, then built a house and post office from which he delivered the mail in the early 1870's. Later, he became a leading citizen in the town of Atlanta, building a home, store, and post office. He was the first mayor of Atlanta. In 1886, he sold his farming interests to his son Benjamin, and went into business with his son Henry. They operated a general merchandise store, and later, a hardware, implement, and vehicle business with a well-equipped repair shop.

Willis Wilson was known as a man who raised a large family and took care of many other people in the community. He held various township offices, was a member of Atlanta Post No. 324, G.A.R., was a Republican, and attended the Methodist Church.
